I can draw on knowledge of different text types to help structure my own writing.	I can use the passive voice for variety and to shift focus (the cake was eaten by the child)	I can use the full range of punctuation consistently for interest and effect, demonstrating a confident personal style.
My writing shows that I am aware of what the reader needs to become especially interested in my writing.	I can use a wide range of connectives for impact and effect.	I am continuing to write fluently in clear, joined handwriting.
